During uncertain times, it is especially important to make safe financial decisions. Below are eight simple steps to help establish and to maintain long-term financial stability.

- 1. Create a household budget: Create a monthly and annual budget to identify expected income and expenses, including savings. This will serve as a guide to help you live within your income.
- 2. Know your take-home pay: Before making any significant purchases, estimate how much of your income is available for you. Remember to make estimates based upon your net income. Net income is the amount of your paycheck after all taxes and other mandatory deductions.
- 3. Start saving today: Understand that your total savings are determined both by the interest you earn on those savings and the time period over which you save. The sooner you start saving, the more funds you'll be able to amass over time. After paying bills and other financial obligations, set aside an affordable amount each month in accounts designated for long-range goals and unexpected emergencies.
- 4. Don't borrow what you can't repay: Be a responsible borrower by repaying all loans and other obligations. Making payments on time will show that you are worthy of getting credit in the future. Before borrowing, compare your total payment obligations with income that you will have available to make these payments.
- 5. Question offers that seem too good to be true: Be suspicious of advertisements, sales people or other sources of financial offers promising anything risk free. Never pay for foreclosure prevention assistance. If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.
- 6. List your financial goals: Take time to list your financial goals, along with a realistic plan for achieving them. This will provide you with a step-by-step plan to realistically reach your short and long-term financial goals.
- 7. Your credit history follows you: Credit bureaus maintain credit reports, which record borrowers' histories of repaying loans. Negative information in credit reports can affect your ability to borrow at a later point.
- 8. Stay insured: Purchase and maintain insurance to avoid being wiped out by a financial loss, such as an illness or accident. To avoid costly "force-placed" insurance by your lender, never let your homeowner's insurance lapse. An insurance plan should be part of every personal financial plan.
